LEARN • ACHIEVE • LEAD

April 19, 2022

Dear Rye Neck Families,

I hope everyone enjoyed our final full-week break in the school year. Some of us traveled or visited family while some of us stayed home. I did a little of everything, celebrating my 30th wedding anniversary and then taking advantage of the better weather to do some yard work.

According to our Middle and High School schedules we begin the fourth marking period today! Metaphors about the home stretch and final quarter coincide with those about springtime and optimism. Our calendar for the last two and half months has all of that. Please read the principals' weekly messages and check our website for events that either involve your children or interest you. Spring sports are happening, while planning for concerts, the prom, and our end-of-year ceremonies are underway. There's plenty to do and we're excited to "start the finish".

Dr. Wilson and I recently finished our annual "senior exit interviews", an opportunity for the 12th graders to share their plans for next year as they exit our school system and continue their transition into adulthood. With a lot of promise and potential, their journey exemplifies the path to success our community offers.

I hope to see you at our schools soon. Happy Earth Week!

Best regards,

Dr. Eric Lutinski
Superintendent of Schools
